Internet-based Trainee Performance Feedback (including videos)
Difficulty Airway Management (Anesthesiology)

The objective of the Difficulty Airway Management course is for the trainees to obtain a working knowledge and proficiency of the American Society of Anesthesiologists Difficult Airway Management Guidelines and its associated airway management techniques. Didactic training focuses on evaluation of the airway and the ASA Difficult Airway Management Guidelines. Simulator training focuses on psychomotor skill sets for various airway management techniques and devices including: retrograde intubation, lighted stylet, ventilating tube exchanger, laryngeal mask airway, combitube, transtracheal jet ventilation, and cricothyrotomy. After skill set training, trainees are presented with a range of difficult airway scenarios on the simulator, which they manage in “real-time” to gain experience and confidence in their training.

Fiberoptic Bronchoscopy (Anesthesiology)

The primary objective of the Fiberoptic Bronchoscopy course is to provide the trainee with a firm foundation in all aspects of principles and psychomotor skill sets necessary to rapidly become clinically proficient in the basic and advance uses of the fiberoptic bronchoscope in the anesthesia domain. By the conclusion of this course, the trainee should be able to recognize the value of the role the fiberoptic bronchoscope plays in airway management, and the necessity for them to seek out clinical opportunities to develop clinical expertise.

Continuing Education Credit

The University of Pittsburgh School of Medicine is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education to provide continuing medical education for physicians.

The University of Pittsburgh School of Medicine designates this educational activity for a maximum of 20.0 Category 1 credits toward the AMA Physician’s Recognition Award. Each physician should claim only those credits that he/she actually spent in the educational activity.

Other health care professionals are awarded 0.20 continuing education units (CEU’s) which are equal to 20.0 contact hours.

Difficult Airway Management – This portion of the activity is worth a maximum of 12.25 Category 1 credits.

Fiberoptic Bronchoscopy – This portion of the activity is worth a maximum of 7.75 Category 1 credits.
